

Privacy Policy

Last edited on 11/27/2019.

1. We limit the collection and usage of the information you provide.

We follow the principle of limiting the processing of the data you provide. If you are using The Money without authorization, we do not process any personal data as we possess no information that can be used to identify you unambiguously.

To create an account (sign up), you need to provide an e-mail address and create a password (hereinafter - Means of Access).

During the signing up/in we only process the information about your e-mail address. We do not transfer to third parties the information about the e-mail address you use for signing up/in unless stated otherwise in the Privacy Policy and the End-User License Agreement.

2. You are responsible for the inaccessibility of your

Means of Access

Since your e-mail address is the only means of communication between the information in your account and your personality, we strongly recommend that you use an e-mail address that is not associated with your social media data or your name.

If you are using an e-mail address associated with your personal data, make sure you keep your password and the fact that you are using that particular e-mail address to access your The Money account in secret.

We recommend you not to provide your data to third parties under any circumstances. If you suspect that your data are being used by third parties, change your password immediately.

We shall not be held responsible for third parties accessing your account.

3. What We Use Your Data For

We agree not to exchange, transfer or sell to third parties in any manner the data you provided unless it is for matters stipulated in the End-User License Agreement.

Your personal data may be transferred to partners of The Money bound by similar privacy obligations in order to provide appropriate information services in correspondence with the End-User License Agreement.

We use your personal data exclusively for the following purposes:

- to inform you about news and updates in The Money services;
- to address tips on using The Money services and reply to questions regarding The Money technical support;
- to analyze and monitor the performance of The Money, develop The Money services.

4. We Guarantee Data Protection and Cyphering

We use all available means of digital and physical security to provide safety for your data.

We store your password in a cyphered form so that your password can only be restored via the standard password restoration procedure through your e-mail address.

5. Changes

We reserve the right to change entries of the present Privacy Policy.

The date of the last edition of the Privacy Policy is stated at the top of the document. The changes enter into force once they are published on the website https://www.andromeda.team/priv_en.pdf.

6. Contact Info

If you have any questions, please send your e-mails to the following address: support@andromeda.team